

Biggest Inflator of All Is the Public Purse

Advance reports out of Washington on the 1953-54 federal budget that's the one coming up — indicate the Truman administration has set an absolute minimum of 80 billion dollars.

Governmental budgets are financed in the last analysis by taxes. Even if some of the money is borrowed it has to be covered eventually by taxes; borrowing only makes the tax bill heavier, for then there is interest to be paid as well as principal.

And this 80-billion-dollar budget proposal tells you all you really need to know about the rise in the cost of living for the average American family in the last decade.

Divide 80 billion dollars over all America and it comes to $2,650 for every family. Back in 1939 the federal budget figured only $265 per family. The budget load — or tax load, shall we call it — is eight times greater per family today than it was a decade ago.

I submit to you that in common decency no American has any right to challenge the cost of an article offered for sale in private commerce while the same American lets go unchallenged such fantastic figures from his own elected government.

The companies that produce the things that citizens buy have a scathing answer. Corporations themselves have no vote; at all, and the stockholders of corporations are a minority vote at best; but the know-it-all, cocksure majority — they are the boys who have gotten the country into a jam.

The jam is called "inflation."

The politicians are busy blaming it on private business, but business can't do anything about it while the people, ignoring dangerous figures, keep right on electing leaders who specialize in speeches advising folks on what they ought to get — instead of what they ought to keep.

Common sense tells you that the biggest inflator of all is a politician with a handful of money not his own.

He would "control" inflation by slapping orders against private business, but continue fanning the flames with record public spending. The arms programs is beside the point. That program we do have to carry out. But all the more reason for retrenchment of every federal activity not directly contributing to defense.

For instance, the government is criticizing private finance for "contributing to inflation" by loaning money for construction of private housing; yet the government goes right ahead with public housing projects guaranteed — and in part certain to be paid for — by federal taxes.

So dishonorable is the position the government finds itself in that in order to cut off the flow of private housing loans from the big insurance companies it has to manipulate the market on federal bonds. The government sells bonds to private citizens at $100 par, manipulates them down to $96.50 (today's quotation on a blue-ribbon issue), then buys them back — and at a profit.

It is as if you or I were to do such a thing as the officer of a company issuing its own securities, the government would put us in jail and throw the key away.

I suggest that citizens who continue to vote majority-wise for politicians and programs which reduce government to such dishonorable depths are inviting retribution on themselves personally. The individual never escapes where figures are concerned — particularly tax figures.

And by this time you should know.

Elijah Murry Dies in Emmet at Age of 79

Elijah M. Murry, 79, of Emmet died at 10 p.m. Friday at his home. The funeral service is being held at Emmet Baptist church at 3 p.m. today (Saturday), with burial in Snell cemetery. The Rev. Howard White of Hope and the Rev. John White of Sutton will be in charge. Mr. Murry is survived by his wife; one son, Perry Murry of Emmet; three daughters, Mrs. Nash Hubbs of Hope; Mrs. Bruce Price of Emmet; and Mrs. Earl Fincher of Kilgore, Texas; several grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Palbearers: James Hamilton, Joe Hamilton, Howard Wright, Rancy Garland, Paul Hamric and Bill Thompson.

Fulbright Headed Back for Arkansas

Washington Nov. 24 (AP)—Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), back in his office after a Jamaican vacation, says he'll catch up on accumulated work and prepare a few speeches in the next week or so and then go to Arkansas to visit constituents.

"I want to find out what's going on," he said, adding that he hadn't seen a United States newspaper in 18 days.

Mistreatment of Mexican Labor Denied

Tiptonville, Tenn., Nov. 24 (AP)—A plantation owner last night angrily denied that he mistreated Mexican workers he imported to pick his cotton.

W. T. Jamison issued his statement shortly after a joint U. S.-Mexico committee toured his 800-acre farm near here in an investigation demanded by the Mexican government.

The check came after about 80 of the 150 men Jamison trucked from Eagle Pass, Texas, deserted the plantation and walked 100 miles to Memphis to ask the Mexican consul, Angel Cano, to help him. He was going to try to cancel the contract under which about 70 of the men remain on the plantation.

The committee itself—made up of Cano and W. O. Crittenden of Atlanta, a department of labor representative—refused to comment on the all-day hearing.

"They want to cancel my contract and make me pay the cost of moving those men back to Mexico," Jamison said. "If they do, I won't move those men one step."

Jamison branded as false charges that the Mexicans had to live in barracks-like buildings without facilities for water and only one stove per building for heat and cooking.

"There are two water pumps in each barracks," he said, "and nine stoves in the five buildings."

He added that the men were paid according to contract specifications, averaging from $19 to $34 per week, according to the amount of cotton picked.

Forty-nine of the Mexicans who made the long trek across West Tennessee were bedded down in a Memphis hotel, awaiting transportation south of the border.

Several of them told Cano that some of them who left the plantation were thrown in jail. Sheriff John Yarborough admitted jailing 15 or 20 men and returning them to Jamison.

Jamison said he had nothing to do with the arrests.

Disgruntled Mexican workers who reported in at the consulate for help included 12 from Keiser, Ark. They had slogged 60 miles to Memphis.

U. S. Plane Shot Down Outside Russian Zone

Paris, Nov. 24 (UP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway told the United Nations today that two Soviet fighter planes attacked a missing U. S. weather reconnaissance aircraft more than 20 miles outside Russian territory.

Ridgway's report, submitted to the U. N. security council blasted a formal Soviet accusation to the United States that the U. N. twin-engine plane with 10 men aboard deliberately flew over Russia's naval base at Vladivostok.

The report from the U. N. supreme commander in Korea said an intensive search for the navy P-2V Neptune patrol bomber proved fruitless. It disappeared Nov. 6, while on a weather reconnaissance mission for the U. N. command.

"The route this plane was following did not approach closer than 40 miles to U. S. S. R. territory, and the plane crew had been thoroughly briefed not to approach closer than 20 miles to U. S. S. R. territory under any circumstances," the note said.

"It can only be concluded that an intentional or planned approach to the Russian coast was not made, and that the plane was intercepted and attacked without warning while over international water, and furthermore, while well outside of 20 miles from the Russian coastline."

From the plane's last reported position, the report said, there is

Jerseys Owned by Local Youth Are Classified

The herd of registered Jersey cattle owned by Richard Lynn Hunt, Hope, has been classified for type under the program of the American Jersey Cattle Club.

The classification rated the animals for type, comparing them against the breed's score of 100 points for a perfect animal.

In this classification, the first for the herd, 4 animals were rated by Prof. M. J. Regan of the University of Missouri. Regan is an official classifier for the club, which has its national headquarters in Columbus, Ohio. He scored all females in the herd that have had at least one calf and all bulls over 2 years old.

Two animals in the classification scored Very Good and 2 scored Good Plus to give the herd an average of 85.00 per cent. This is above the average score for all animals in the Jersey breed.

Lions Club Auction Nets $1,600 for Christmas Gift Fund

Above are members of the Lions Club conducting an auction successful financially that the club has ever tried. In the 3-night affair residents of this area paid $1,600 for articles sold over the net. The club will use all of the money to give Christmas baskets to needy families in Hope.

Cold Wave Strikes the Middle West

By The Associated Press

The coldest weather of the season hit the Midwest today.

Temperatures tumbled to far below zero in parts of North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa. It was -16 at Jamestown, N. D., -11 in Alexandria, Minn., and -6 in Grandburg.

The vicious daughter of British King George and Queen Elizabeth started the evening with a dinner at Mxm's, famed restaurant immortalized by Franz Lehár in the "Merry Widow."

Then—accompanied by her aunt the Duchess of Kent, and a group of blue bloods—she led reporters and news photographers a merry chase.

First she stopped at the smart Montparnasse Jazz club, "Jimmy's," stayed there long enough to have a drink, then headed off for "Monsiegnurs" Club Night club in the Montmartre section.

Leaving "Jimmy's" she ran through a drizzling rain to her waiting automobile. A photographer who tried to take her picture found the heavy hand of a Scotland Yard man thrust across the lens of his camera.

At "Monsiegnurs" two British detectives strode into the club, seized a camera from a French newspaper photographer, hustled him outside and destroyed the film he had taken of the royal party.

The princess, dressed in a white sari evening gown, with a pearl bow at the waist, danced the rumba and samba with Prince Nicholas of Yugoslavia and the Comte De Rubes.

The princess sat in one corner of the smart club under a painting of one of Henry IV's daughters, while eight violinists played "Temptation."

The party drank champagne at 5,500 francs ($16) a bottle.

Organization Meet Called on Cub Scouts

The parents of all boys 8 to 14 are urged to attend the parents' meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 26, at 7:30 to discuss the school auditorium Monday night, organization and program of Cub Scouts for the coming year. This is a joint meeting for the parents of both Oakley and Paisley schools.

Ralph Johnson, district representative of the Boy Scouts of America, will explain the Boy Scout program for the younger boys, the Cub Scout — to the parents at this time.

An opportunity for every boy, in every community, to join in this organized activity for the younger boy is the goal, which can be accomplished only through and with the cooperation of the parents. And remember, fathers are parents, too, and are especially invited to attend.

Violent Death Toll in State 19 for Week

By The Associated Press

Arkansas' known violent death toll for this week has risen to 19. Roger Dove, nine-year-old Walnut Ridge boy, fell into a swimming pool at the Walnut Ridge air base Friday and drowned.

A North Little Rock man, Richard Neil Bell, 23, died in the collision of his automobile and a truck near the Pulaski-Faulkner county line on highway 65 Friday night.

Bobby J. Bishop Joins 49th Wing

49th Fighter Bomber Wing, Korea, Nov. 24. — Pfc. Bobby J. Bishop of Hope, recently arrived in Korea for duty with the 49th Fighter-Bomber Wing, a veteran fighter organization of Fifth Air Force and has been assigned as a special vehicle operator in the Transportation section of the Wing.

British Princess Dances in Paris Until Hour of 3

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP) Princess Margaret, kicking up her black high-heeled shoes in a gay farewell to Paris, danced until 3 a. m. today in two of the French capital's smartest nightclubs.

The vivacious daughter of British King George and Queen Elizabeth started the evening with a dinner at Mxm's, famed restaurant immortalized by Franz Lehár in the "Merry Widow."

Then—accompanied by her aunt the Duchess of Kent, and a group of blue bloods—she led reporters and news photographers a merry chase.

First she stopped at the smart Montparnasse Jazz club, "Jimmy's," stayed there long enough to have a drink, then headed off for "Monsiegnurs" Club Night club in the Montmartre section.

Leaving "Jimmy's" she ran through a drizzling rain to her waiting automobile. A photographer who tried to take her picture found the heavy hand of a Scotland Yard man thrust across the lens of his camera.

At "Monsiegnurs" two British detectives strode into the club, seized a camera from a French newspaper photographer, hustled him outside and destroyed the film he had taken of the royal party.

The princess, dressed in a white sari evening gown, with a pearl bow at the waist, danced the rumba and samba with Prince Nicholas of Yugoslavia and the Comte De Rubes.

The princess sat in one corner of the smart club under a painting of one of Henry IV's daughters, while eight violinists played "Temptation."

The party drank champagne at 5,500 francs ($16) a bottle.

Enroute to Chicago

Donald Ray Brown of Spring Hill and Jacqueline Tyler of Route 1, Washington left Friday for Little Rock to join the Arkansas delegation for the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago November 25 to 29th. The Arkansas 4-H delegation is scheduled to arrive in Chicago Sunday morning about 8 a. m., where they will stay in the Conrad Hilton formerly the Stevens Hotel headquarters for the weeks activities.

Donald Ray is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Brown of Spring Hill. He is 15 years of age, active in 4-H club work for seven years, and a sophomore in Hope high school.

Donald Ray has a young herd of quality registered Jersey cattle as his home demonstration has been Jerseys since entering 4-H club work. He will represent Arkansas at the National 4-H Club Congress as the high place individual in the State Dairy Judging team of three members.

Donald Ray is also a producer of reseeded crimson clover for winter pasture and a worker in county 4-H club leadership activities.

Jacqueline is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tyler, Route 1, Washington, and has been in 4-H club work for the past four years. She is 14 years old and in the 9th grade at Hope high school. She earned her trip to Chicago and the National 4-H Club Congress by winning the State 4-H Club Baking Contest at State 4-H Club Camp at Fayetteville last summer where she competed against 17 other 4-H club girls from over Arkansas in the judging of baked products and baking biscuits.

Donald Ray and Jacqueline at Chicago will be members of the National 4-H Club Congress delegation where over 1,200 club members from all parts of the country are gathered as representatives of nearly 2,000,000 4-H club members. The theme of the Congress is working together for world understanding. A full schedule of activities is arranged for the week away from Arkansas.

The Arkansas delegation will arrive back in Little Rock on December 1st with Donald Ray and Jacqueline returning to Hope that afternoon. County Agent Oliver L. Adams went with the two Hempstead county delegates to Little Rock.

Small Businessman Passes Up Crying Towel; What He Wants Is Materials, Orders

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP) — Small business is crying "help" again.

The plight of the small businessman has aroused much sympathy. But the small businessmen themselves would like less sympathy—and more order.

One of their spokesmen is Herbert Barchoff, 36-year-old vice president of the Eastern Brass and Cooper co., a metals warehouse and processing firm.

"The small businessman today is bewildered by restrictions on the use of basic metals—brass, copper, aluminum and steel," he said.

"He can't get enough material to continue full manufacture of consumer goods. He can get material to work on defense contracts—but he isn't getting these defense contracts fast enough to stay in business."

Barchoff said there are "thousands and thousands" of small firms faced with suspension of operations.

"It is an odd thing to say," he remarked, "but they are being hurt more by a percentage war than in an all-out war. In an all-out war the government needs things in a hurry, and the contracts filter down quickly to their level."

"There were a lot of casualties in the last war. Some of those who survived then, say they are having even tougher going now."

"They're drowning. Any number won't be able to survive until the third quarter of 1952, when the government hopes to release additional quantities of aluminum and steel for civilian use."

Barchoff held a pioneering "shirt-sleeve conference" at his own plant last summer to attack the problem. He brought together government officials, representatives of big business, and hundreds of small businessmen. Similar regional shirt-sleeve conferences are planned throughout the country.

"But we need to get together a basic organization to filter down contracts to small business firms faster," he said. "That will still salvage some."

Major government agencies dispensing defense contracts now have units to deal with small business. But Barchoff feels they should be consolidated into one outfit.

"Then the small businessman could go to a single place instead of being pushed from pillar to post," he said. "The average small businessman is discouraged by red tape. He gives it up as hopeless. He can't afford to go to Washington and fight for a contract. He simply goes out of business."

Another possible solution, Barchoff feels is regional pools of small businessmen organized to handle major contracts.

"But the main trouble up until is there simply hasn't been enough government ordering."

Pointing out that a great percentage of contracts had been concentrated in a relatively few big firms he added:

"There is no real clash between big business and small business. They need each other."

"But many big concerns today in order to take up the slack resulting from cuts in their own civilian production are doing themselves the work they used to send out to small subcontractors. Government officials also have been slow to allocate contracts, hoping to get later technological benefits."

"But the result is the same: small businessmen are going under. And our whole economy can be upset if we lose small business."

One Duck Hunt Fort Smith Man Won't Ever Forget

Fort Smith, Nov. 24 (AP) J. K. Fraser will remember the 1951 duck hunting season for a long time.

He saw enough ducks to get his limit twice, he reported, but by that time, his interest was in his own words, dampened.

At that particular time, Fraser, 61-year-old Fort Smith contractor, was being carried down the Arkansas river.

The boat in which he and three companions were hunting capsized near Lavaca. The companions—Pat and Victor Ferrari Jr., of Fort Smith and Ernie Stroub of Riverdale—swam to shore. Fraser, weighted down by heavy clothing, was caught in a current and swept downstream. He wore a life belt.

While his friends gave an alarm, Fraser bobbed in the cold water for one and one-half hours before he was found clinging to a bank four miles downstream. It was Stroub who found Fraser and helped the exhausted sportsman to shore.

After resting, Fraser returned to Fort Smith he apparently suffered no ill effects.

Petitions Circulate for Dixie Downs

West Memphis, Nov. 24 (AP)—Petitions for a Crittenden county election to decide whether a swank race track can be built here started circulating today.

Sponsors of Dixie Downs, Inc., hoped to have 810 signatures by qualified voters in time to file the petitions with the circuit court clerk Monday.

While the petitions gathered names, the anti-race track league prepared its battle plans and launched a drive for $2,000 to finance its fight.

The league asked county preachers to lead the drive. Last night, at a meeting here, representatives of West Memphis, Marion and Turle counties set temporary commitment figures based on population ratios.

The Rev. Alfred A. Knox, leader of the anti-track movement, asked each county minister to choose a number of qualified voters from his congregation to make personal visits to voters.

The franchise for the track was granted by the Arkansas Racing commission on the condition that county voters approve the Dixie Downs plan.

Mayor's Race Sent Back to Home Court

Little Rock, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Arkansas supreme court has handed back to the Washington circuit court a legal controversy involving balloting for mayor of Fayetteville at the Nov. 6 general election.

Arthur B. Davidson, a write-in candidate, received more votes than Mayor Powell Rhea, who was unopposed on the printed ballot. Circuit Judge Maupin Cummings invalidated Davidson's apparent election because the candidate's name was written three ways—Arthur B. Davidson, Arthur Davidson and A.B. Davidson. His vote total, under anyone of the three, was less than that of Rhea.

Attorneys yesterday argued Davidson's application to the Supreme court for an order requiring Cummings to approve his certification as mayor-elect.

The high court ordered the case remanded to the circuit court to be treated as an election contest. The circuit court will determine who was to benefit from the votes cast for Davidson, if any of the votes cast for either candidate were illegal and if it was lawful for voters to write in the name of a candidate.

The supreme court postponed decision on any questions of law involved until the case reaches it again on appeal from the election contest decision—if it should be appealed.

Warren Recovering of Appendectomy

San Francisco, Nov. 24 (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren is recuperating satisfactorily from an appendectomy performed Wednesday, University of California hospital said.

A member of his secretarial staff said it probably would be another week before the governor returns to Sacramento.

BROKEN QUITTING

London, Nov. 23 (AP)—Brendan Bracken, wartime information minister, says he is quitting parliament because of ill health. His resignation will put the Conservative party's working majority in the house of commons to 15, pending an election to fill the vacancy. The dispute is predominantly among

Korean Truce Line Is Half Completed

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 24 (AP)—United Nations and Communist staff officers today pinpointed half the 145-mile cease-fire line across Korea.

A U. N. spokesman said Allied military experts hope to complete the job tomorrow but "couldn't make any guarantee."

The spokesman LT. Col. Howard Levie, indicated that if the staff officers are unable to map the entire line Sunday, the joint cease-fire subcommittees will take over. This apparently means the full truce delegations cannot approve the buffer zone clause before Monday.

The staff officers meet in Panmunjom for the third time at 10 a.m. (7 p.m. CST Saturday).

If they fail to reach complete agreement "it's not to be considered a failure," Levie said. He explained that subdelegates have far more latitude and would be able to make quick decisions.

The staff officers met for more than five hours Saturday. Levie said they agreed on 65 to 70 miles of cease-fire line.

Levie said progress was being made when the session adjourned. "Our staff officers expect to go back tomorrow and make considerable progress right from the beginning because both sides will have had an opportunity to get the latest information from the front lines," he said.

While progress was made Saturday, Levie acknowledged there were "certain areas of major difference."

There were strong indications that most of those areas are on the western end of the battle line where the Chinese have hurled attack after attack at United Nations troops dug in on strategic hills west of Yonchon.

Levie said a "major" difference would involve five miles of territory or a strategic terrain point. Asked whether there was any indication the Communists might be stalling, Levie replied: "Only from the claims to some places well behind our outpost lines."

Several times during Saturday's session the Allied staff officers agreed to fly the Communists over disputed areas for an on-the-spot inspection.

Levie said the Reds refused cash time. After the cease-fire line is agreed, proved by the subcommittees, the entire buffer zone clause will be turned over to the full armistice delegations, which are expected to adopt it speedily. Then the negotiators will move on to the next item on the agenda—supervision of the armistice.

Under terms of the agreement worked out by the subcommittees, the cease-fire line agreed upon will become the final demarcation line if an armistice is signed within 30 days.

8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Nov. 24 (UP)—United Nations forces recaptured today at least

Continued on Page Two

Duck-Calling Title Due at Stuttgart

Stuttgart, Nov. 24 (AP)—Duck-callers turn their talents to pleasing the judges rather than luring the game fowl here today.

The one who does the best of it will be picked as the world champion duck caller.

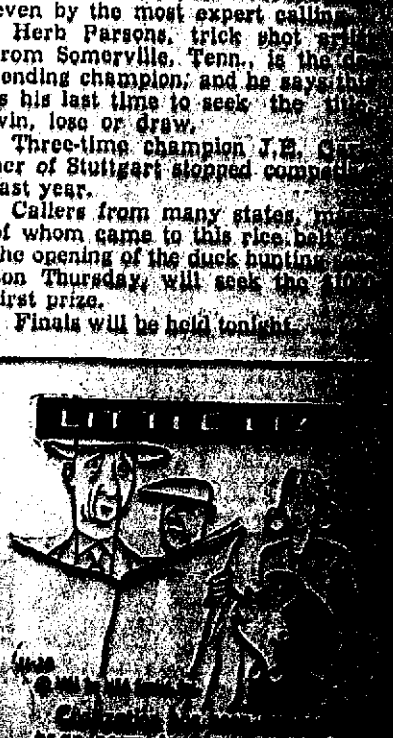

The judges can base their decision only on whose calls sound most like a duck, for the contest is held on a downtown Stuttgart street with a huge crowd of people milling about. No duck even has been lured into such surroundings even by the most expert callers.

Herb Parsons, trick shot artist from Somerville, Tenn., is the defending champion; and he says his is his last time to seek the title win, loss or draw.

Three-time champion J. B. Grier of Stuttgart slipped competition last year.

Callers from many states, many of whom came to this place for the opening of the duck hunting season Thursday, will see the first prize.

Finals will be held tonight.

Experts for Government Work Scarce

Key West, Fla., Nov. 24 (AP)—President Truman wrestled today with the major problem of drawing experts into the government service to handle key defense assignments.

Emergency agencies are operating largely with executives on leave from private business or educational institutions whose services in many cases are necessary of temporary duration.

Gordon Gray, on leave from the presidency of the University of North Carolina, was able to resign yesterday as director of the psychological strategy board because, as he put it in a letter to the President, "a very competent successor has been found."

That successor is Dr. Raymond B. Allen, who is leaving the presidency of the University of Washington on January 1 to take over the duties of Gray, a former secretary of the army.

In his assignment, Dr. Allen will formulate and coordinate overall psychological objectives, policies and programs of the defense program.

The difference between government pay scales and those of private industry have been cited repeatedly by Mr. Truman as his biggest handicap in finding experts to handle top federal jobs.

Even after Gray left his army post to take over the university presidency, Mr. Truman called him back to make an important study of foreign economic policy.

Subsequently, he got Gray to take a leave of absence from the university to be the first director of the psychological strategy board.

Attorneys Say 'In Clear' on Holt Divorce

Little Rock, Nov. 24 (AP)—Two state senators say they have been given a clean bill of health by the Arkansas Bar association committee for the case of Howell-Cowboy "Tim" Holt.

Sen. Max B. Howell of Little Rock, who was Holt's attorney, said last night the committee gave him a clean bill of health.

Sen. Clyde E. Byrd of El Dorado, who served as attorney for Mrs. Holt, told reporters:

"I advised the committee has completed its investigation and made its report and that no charges will be filed against me."

The committee, part of the Arkansas Bar association, made no announcement regarding its meeting yesterday.

Committee secretary Howard Coker said bar association rules prohibited the committee from discussing their activities unless disbarment proceedings resulted.

He referred newsmen to Howell and Byrd.

Holt under his real name of Charles John Holt, Jr., filed the divorce action in Pulaski Chancery court while he was in Little Rock making personal appearances at the Arkansas Livestock show, of which Byrd is manager.

The suit was dismissed on the motion of Howell, who said he had taken the case at the request of a friend and didn't learn his client's true identity or that the client didn't meet divorce law residence requirements until they met in the courtroom.

Holt was fined $300 in Pulaski court Sept. 27 after pleading guilty to charges that the committee pursued by testifying he had been a resident of Arkansas for 90 days.

Winston Churchill fought in the decisive battle with British-Egyptian forces at Omdurman in 1898 in the Sudan campaign which began British-Egyptian joint rule of the Sudan.

Photographic Mystery Creates Sensation —

This picture, which appeared in the Ashland (Ky.) Daily Independent, was represented to that newspaper as an actual photograph taken in the sky over Korea. The Independent ran the picture on a Sunday and the entire edition of 14,000 copies was quickly sold out, with people clamoring for more. Two weeks later, also on a Sunday, the paper ran the picture again and again the entire edition was snapped up. Readers sent clippings to friends and the Independent has been receiving hundreds of letters from all over the country. According to the information received by the paper, an Air Force man from Chicago took pictures of an American and a Communist plane during a combat patrol. He sent the films home to Chicago to be developed. To the amazement of everyone, including the flyer, the image of Christ, supposedly formed by clouds, showed up on one of the photos. A neighbor of the Air Force man's family in Chicago sent a print to his brother in Ashland. Someone there finally mailed it to the Independent. Actual origin of the picture is a mystery so far, because the names of the Air Force man and of the Chicago neighbor family are unknown.

Korean Truce

Continued from Page One

three hills wrestled from them by the Communists in sharp night attacks.

Both sides were looking for position all along the 145-mile front before truce negotiators at Panmunjom settle the line that will become the buffer zone if an armistice agreement is completed within 30 days.

Allied troops recaptured one hill west of Yenchon on the frozen western front after an all-night battle and "presented" it to Vice-President Alben W. Barkley as a present on his 74th birthday.

Brig. Gen. Thomas J. Cross, commander of the U. S. 3rd Division, received word of the victory while Barkley was addressing troops on an advance Korean airstrip. Notified of the "presentation," Barkley accepted a suggestion that it be christened "June Hill," after his wife.

Thousands of Reds blowing bugles and whistles had taken the hill late Friday. Heavy Allied counterattacks and supporting artillery finally drove them off at mid-morning.

American jet fighters damaged three Soviet-built MIG-15 jets in the second straight day of dog-fights below the Manchurian border. Eighteen Sabrejets fought 35 MIG's in the latest 15-minute battle near Sinaju.

The Far East air force announced that U. N. planes shot down five MIG's, probably destroyed two others and damaged 10 in the six days ended Friday.

The Allies lost one Thunderjet to MIG's, two propeller-driven marine planes to ground fire and a light bomber to "undetermined causes" during the same period.

A Chinese force described by the 8th Army as a "depleted division" hit the Allied line on a five-mile front west of Yenchon Friday on the signal of bugle and whistle blasts.

The initial impact toppled the U. N. defenders from a strategic hill and forced them back 300 yards. The Allies regrouped, however, and counter-attacked at 6 p. m. (4 a. m. EST).

The attack made slow progress during the night. At dawn, however, the Allies jumped off anew

U. S. Plane

Continued from Page One

and reached breakfast only 40 yards from the crest before enemy fire pinned them down.

Another Communist attack in battalion strength west southwest of the contested height exemplified again Allied barbed wire.

Rain snow and generally freezing temperatures hampered activity all along the 35-mile ground front Friday. Temperatures dropped to 17 degrees in Punchbowl valley and trees were laden with ice.

Unknown Designer

The designer of the Cologne Cathedral in Germany is unknown. There is a tradition that a nameless youth haunted his soul to Satan for the design and a promise of everlasting fame.

Little Rock Dog Is Field Trial Winner

Continued from Page One

Booneville, Nov. 24 (AP)—Rangers Billy, owned by Mrs. G. B. Oliver of Little Rock, won the open derby championship as the Arkansas Field Trials ended here yesterday.

The dog was handled by E. P. Epperson of Stillwater, Okla. Con-Y-Yak spot, owned by Paul the navy "exhausted every possibility of rescue" of the missing fliers. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Hodgson said Howard's letter told them that "no debris or life raft" was ever found.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

"Is that a compliment?" asked Mollie.

"I meant just what I said. She's a bat—but not a bad one."

"Unless she was deliberately . . ."

He looked at her. "Deliberately what?"

Mollie laughed. "Forget it. I just had a suspicious idea—but it wasn't a good one. I'll take myself up, Peter. You should be on your way."

"Yeah. 'Night, Mollie. It's been swell. I'll be seeing you."

"I hope so. And remember to drop in for egg nog on New Year's. I mean—plan on that?"

"Sure will," he called over his shoulder. He was already almost to the corner.

At the hospital Mollie discovered Clara. She was pretty—her sparkle said she'd be fun—she worked for her living, but here was no career woman. Yes, Mollie envied Janie, and knew that she wished she were like her. Or more like her than she was. Janie would admire Dr. Brooks, and be in awe of her; she'd call her clothes "marvelous," her sophistication would mark the older woman as "wonderful," but Janie would go right on, content to be Janie. And rightly.

Puzzled at the strength of her emotions, reminding herself that it was Clara's wagging tongue which had placed significance upon this girl, Mollie was upset enough by the fact of Janie's existence that she carefully restrained herself from speaking to Peter of her. And he did not speak of her himself. Mollie tried to convince herself that Janie was just one of a crowd with which Peter ran. And almost succeeded.

That week was busy. Hospital duties went on, Christmas week or no. There was, besides, a great deal of social activity. Even with Nicholas stand-offish, Mollie had several engagements and used an equal amount of energy evading other invitations. She had her own New Year's day egg nog party to plan for. Nicholas had always helped her with that party, and expecting him to do it this year would open a way by which their former companionship could be resumed. Mollie did miss him. . . .

But then he'd had to give his Christmas dinner party and imply—

So she must show him that she could get along quite well without him, though doing it alone took more time than the parties had done in previous years.

Clara "popped in" on New Year's morning with a dollop for Dr. Brooks' coffee table. "I baked you an angel food cake, too. I knew you were giving a party."

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

"Is that a compliment?" asked Mollie.

"I meant just what I said. She's a bat—but not a bad one."

"Unless she was deliberately . . ."

Russia Asks Rewriting of Disarmament

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky demanded today that the Western powers rewrite their disarmament plan almost completely to make it acceptable to Russia.

Spokesmen for Britain and the United States immediately expressed disappointment and discouragement with Vishinsky's long-awaited reply to the arms reduction plan submitted by the Western plan were incorporated in a series of 12 amendments submitted to the 60-member United Nations assembly political committee. The amendments, to all practical purposes, would transform the Western plan into the one the Russians submitted two weeks ago.

Ambassador Philip C. Jessup, United States delegate who is handling the disarmament debate in the political committee now, made this comment:

"We are very much disappointed. Mr. Vishinsky still seems to prefer denunciation to negotiation."

A leading Scandinavian delegate said he found Vishinsky's address "less belligerent than previous ones," he said he thought "the soft tones at the end of the speech might be an opening for negotiations."

Vishinsky's amendments called for immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb under international control; an immediate one-third reduction of arms by the U. S., Britain, France, Russia and China; emphasized that the control committee on atomic energy and conventional armaments be under the authority of the security council, where Russia has a veto, and cut out all reference to a step-by-step census of arms.

The expected Soviet rejection of the Western plan was somewhat softened by the offer of amendments. At least it meant that the Western proposals would be used as a basis for discussion.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

"Is that a compliment?" asked Mollie.

"I meant just what I said. She's a bat—but not a bad one."

"Unless she was deliberately . . ."

He looked at her. "Deliberately what?"

Mollie laughed. "Forget it. I just had a suspicious idea—but it wasn't a good one. I'll take myself up, Peter. You should be on your way."

"Yeah. 'Night, Mollie. It's been swell. I'll be seeing you."

"I hope so. And remember to drop in for egg nog on New Year's. I mean—plan on that?"

"Sure will," he called over his shoulder. He was already almost to the corner.

At the hospital Mollie discovered Clara. She was pretty—her sparkle said she'd be fun—she worked for her living, but here was no career woman. Yes, Mollie envied Janie, and knew that she wished she were like her. Or more like her than she was. Janie would admire Dr. Brooks, and be in awe of her; she'd call her clothes "marvelous," her sophistication would mark the older woman as "wonderful," but Janie would go right on, content to be Janie. And rightly.

Puzzled at the strength of her emotions, reminding herself that it was Clara's wagging tongue which had placed significance upon this girl, Mollie was upset enough by the fact of Janie's existence that she carefully restrained herself from speaking to Peter of her. And he did not speak of her himself. Mollie tried to convince herself that Janie was just one of a crowd with which Peter ran. And almost succeeded.

That week was busy. Hospital duties went on, Christmas week or no. There was, besides, a great deal of social activity. Even with Nicholas stand-offish, Mollie had several engagements and used an equal amount of energy evading other invitations. She had her own New Year's day egg nog party to plan for. Nicholas had always helped her with that party, and expecting him to do it this year would open a way by which their former companionship could be resumed. Mollie did miss him. . . .

But then he'd had to give his Christmas dinner party and imply—

So she must show him that she could get along quite well without him, though doing it alone took more time than the parties had done in previous years.

Clara "popped in" on New Year's morning with a dollop for Dr. Brooks' coffee table. "I baked you an angel food cake, too. I knew you were giving a party."

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

"Is that a compliment?" asked Mollie.

"I meant just what I said. She's a bat—but not a bad one."

"Unless she was deliberately . . ."

He looked at her. "Deliberately what?"

Mollie laughed. "Forget it. I just had a suspicious idea—but it wasn't a good one. I'll take myself up, Peter. You should be on your way."

"Yeah. 'Night, Mollie. It's been swell. I'll be seeing you."

"I hope so. And remember to drop in for egg nog on New Year's. I mean—plan on that?"

"Sure will," he called over his shoulder. He was already almost to the corner.

At the hospital Mollie discovered Clara. She was pretty—her sparkle said she'd be fun—she worked for her living, but here was no career woman. Yes, Mollie envied Janie, and knew that she wished she were like her. Or more like her than she was. Janie would admire Dr. Brooks, and be in awe of her; she'd call her clothes "marvelous," her sophistication would mark the older woman as "wonderful," but Janie would go right on, content to be Janie. And rightly.

WARNS BERLIN REDS — Maj.-Gen. Lemuel A. Mathewson, above, American commandant in Berlin, promised that the Western Allies would retaliate for the Communist seizure of Steinstuecken District in the American sector of the four-power capital. Possible Western targets might be the Soviet Radio headquarters in the British Zone or the Russian railway headquarters in the American Zone.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

"Is that a compliment?" asked Mollie.

"I meant just what I said. She's a bat—but not a bad one."

"Unless she was deliberately . . ."

He looked at her. "Deliberately what?"

Mollie laughed. "Forget it. I just had a suspicious idea—but it wasn't a good one. I'll take myself up, Peter. You should be on your way."

"Yeah. 'Night, Mollie. It's been swell. I'll be seeing you."

"I hope so. And remember to drop in for egg nog on New Year's. I mean—plan on that?"

"Sure will," he called over his shoulder. He was already almost to the corner.

At the hospital Mollie discovered Clara. She was pretty—her sparkle said she'd be fun—she worked for her living, but here was no career woman. Yes, Mollie envied Janie, and knew that she wished she were like her. Or more like her than she was. Janie would admire Dr. Brooks, and be in awe of her; she'd call her clothes "marvelous," her sophistication would mark the older woman as "wonderful," but Janie would go right on, content to be Janie. And rightly.

Puzzled at the strength of her emotions, reminding herself that it was Clara's wagging tongue which had placed significance upon this girl, Mollie was upset enough by the fact of Janie's existence that she carefully restrained herself from speaking to Peter of her. And he did not speak of her himself. Mollie tried to convince herself that Janie was just one of a crowd with which Peter ran. And almost succeeded.

That week was busy. Hospital duties went on, Christmas week or no. There was, besides, a great deal of social activity. Even with Nicholas stand-offish, Mollie had several engagements and used an equal amount of energy evading other invitations. She had her own New Year's day egg nog party to plan for. Nicholas had always helped her with that party, and expecting him to do it this year would open a way by which their former companionship could be resumed. Mollie did miss him. . . .

But then he'd had to give his Christmas dinner party and imply—

So she must show him that she could get along quite well without him, though doing it alone took more time than the parties had done in previous years.

Clara "popped in" on New Year's morning with a dollop for Dr. Brooks' coffee table. "I baked you an angel food cake, too. I knew you were giving a party."

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

"Is that a compliment?" asked Mollie.

"I meant just what I said. She's a bat—but not a bad one."

"Unless she was deliberately . . ."

He looked at her. "Deliberately what?"

Mollie laughed. "Forget it. I just had a suspicious idea—but it wasn't a good one. I'll take myself up, Peter. You should be on your way."

"Yeah. 'Night, Mollie. It's been swell. I'll be seeing you."

"I hope so. And remember to drop in for egg nog on New Year's. I mean—plan on that?"

"Sure will," he called over his shoulder. He was already almost to the corner.

At the hospital Mollie discovered Clara. She was pretty—her sparkle said she'd be fun—she worked for her living, but here was no career woman. Yes, Mollie envied Janie, and knew that she wished she were like her. Or more like her than she was. Janie would admire Dr. Brooks, and be in awe of her; she'd call her clothes "marvelous," her sophistication would mark the older woman as "wonderful," but Janie would go right on, content to be Janie. And rightly.

Puzzled at the strength of her emotions, reminding herself that it was Clara's wagging tongue which had placed significance upon this girl, Mollie was upset enough by the fact of Janie's existence that she carefully restrained herself from speaking to Peter of her. And he did not speak of her himself. Mollie tried to convince herself that Janie was just one of a crowd with which Peter ran. And almost succeeded.

That week was busy. Hospital duties went on, Christmas week or no. There was, besides, a great deal of social activity. Even with Nicholas stand-offish, Mollie had several engagements and used an equal amount of energy evading other invitations. She had her own New Year's day egg nog party to plan for. Nicholas had always helped her with that party, and expecting him to do it this year would open a way by which their former companionship could be resumed. Mollie did miss him. . . .

But then he'd had to give his Christmas dinner party and imply—

Peace Through Strength Is Reaffirmed

Rome, Nov. 24 (AP) Five western foreign ministers today solemnly reaffirmed the Atlantic Alliance's resolve to win peace through strength.

All said that muscling Europe with defensive military power is their most urgent objective.

The five spoke at the opening of the eighth meeting of the Atlantic chamber of deputies, known as the Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy, who is also foreign minister; Lester B. Pearson of Canada; Anthony Eden of Britain; Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium; and Old Kraft of Denmark.

One after another they arose at the conference table in the former Mussolini forum to hammer away at a single theme: "Peace."

Beside the foreign ministers, finance and defense ministers of the 12 member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Sitting in on the plenary session were two observers from Greece and Turkey, who are expected to become full members of the Alliance early in 1952.

Communist threats to hold anti-West demonstrations outside the meeting place fizzled out.

Eden, making his first speech since NATO was the center of interest. The British foreign secretary said "our purpose is peace."

"We have no aggressive designs, no territorial ambitions, no quarrels," he said.

Eden repeated what he told the United Nations general assembly earlier this month.

The West, he said, can be tested by the nations of the east through the established channels of negotiation.

He did not elaborate beyond saying once again the nations of the world ought to set out to solve their problems "one by one."

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

"Is that a compliment?" asked Mollie.

"I meant just what I said. She's a bat—but not a bad one."

"Unless she was deliberately . . ."

He looked at her. "Deliberately what?"

Mollie laughed. "Forget it. I just had a suspicious idea—but it wasn't a good one. I'll take myself up, Peter. You should be on your way."

"Yeah. 'Night, Mollie. It's been swell. I'll be seeing you."

"I hope so. And remember to drop in for egg nog on New Year's. I mean—plan on that?"

"Sure will," he called over his shoulder. He was already almost to the corner.

At the hospital Mollie discovered Clara. She was pretty—her sparkle said she'd be fun—she worked for her living, but here was no career woman. Yes, Mollie envied Janie, and knew that she wished she were like her. Or more like her than she was. Janie would admire Dr. Brooks, and be in awe of her; she'd call her clothes "marvelous," her sophistication would mark the older woman as "wonderful," but Janie would go right on, content to be Janie. And rightly.

Puzzled at the strength of her emotions, reminding herself that it was Clara's wagging tongue which had placed significance upon this girl, Mollie was upset enough by the fact of Janie's existence that she carefully restrained herself from speaking to Peter of her. And he did not speak of her himself. Mollie tried to convince herself that Janie was just one of a crowd with which Peter ran. And almost succeeded.

That week was busy. Hospital duties went on, Christmas week or no. There was, besides, a great deal of social activity. Even with Nicholas stand-offish, Mollie had several engagements and used an equal amount of energy evading other invitations. She had her own New Year's day egg nog party to plan for. Nicholas had always helped her with that party, and expecting him to do it this year would open a way by which their former companionship could be resumed. Mollie did miss him. . . .

But then he'd had to give his Christmas dinner party and imply—

So she must show him that she could get along quite well without him, though doing it alone took more time than the parties had done in previous years.

Clara "popped in" on New Year's morning with a dollop for Dr. Brooks' coffee table. "I baked you an angel food cake, too. I knew you were giving a party."

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

MOLLIE was glad when the phone rang with a summons for Dr. Shepherd. She told Clara that she'd walk down the street with him. She said as gracious things as she could find about Clara's hospitality.

"She's not such a bad old bat," said Peter, as they hurried along the pavement.

SOCIETY

Phone 7-3431 Between 8 A. M. and 4 P. M.

Calendar

Sunday, November 25
The Intermediate Methodist Youth Fellowship will have a special Thanksgiving program Sunday evening Nov. 25 in the intermediate room. Officials of the church and the grandparents of the intermediates will be guests. Mrs. E. D. Galloway will give a brief talk on "What the Church Means to Europe."

Monday, November 26

Workers Sunday School Class of the Garrett Memorial Baptist Church will meet at the home of Miss Gwendolyn Frith Monday night at 7:30 with Mrs. Alva Robinson as co-hostess. All members are urged to be present.

Monday, November 26

The Junior G. A.'s of the First Baptist Church will meet Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the church for mission study. "Keys to Brazil" Mrs. Hervey Holt will complete the study of the book at this meeting.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church will meet at the church Monday, Nov. 26, from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for a discussion of the mission study book "Pilgrimage to South America." There will be a covered dish luncheon at noon. All members are urged to attend.

Tuesday, November 27

The Nandina Garden Club will meet Tuesday night, Nov. 27, at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Tom Compton, 517 South Main.

The Cosmopolitan Club will meet Tuesday night at 7:45 at the home of Mrs. Ched Hall with Mrs. Mack Stuart and Mrs. Perry Moses as co-hostesses.

Chapter AE of PEO will meet at the home of Mrs. Ched Hall, 116 North Louisiana, Tuesday at 3 p.m. with Mrs. Mack Stuart as hostess.

Miss Rettig Weds

Bobby Messer
Miss Joyce Rettig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Rettig of this city, became the bride of Bobby Charles Messer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Messer also of this city, November 22 in the First Baptist Church, Hope. The Reverend Carlton Roberts officiated at the ceremony.

The altar was graced with yellow chrysanthemums. The music was provided by Mrs. Hendrix Spragins.

The bride wore a two piece dress of mauve velvet and crepe with a matching velvet hat. She carried a white bridal bouquet centered with a large orchid.

Miss Melba Bowen, maid of honor, chose a gunmetal taffeta dress trimmed in black velvet with a black velvet close fitting hat and carried a bouquet of orchid daisy mums.

The bridesmaid, Miss Juanita Cook, wore a navy taffeta dress trimmed in velvet and carried a bouquet of yellow mums.

The bride's mother was dressed in a soft grey dress and hat with red accessories and wore a corsage of red rose buds. The groom's mother chose a blue crepe dress with brown accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Dorsey Byers served as best man and ushers were Billy Joe Rettig of Texarkana and Billy Mitchell of Hope.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Little Rock, Arkansas.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schreck and daughter, Paula Phanae, of Dallas, Texas, arrived Thursday to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Schreck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Fuller. They will return to their home Sunday.

Mrs. R. H. Tipton and little daughter, Barbara Ann, of Houston, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen L. Williams Jr., of Little Rock, are guests of Mrs. Glen L. Williams, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Caudle and little daughter, Mary Virginia of Valley Point, Texas, are guests of Mrs. L. L. Pilkinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bandy of DeQueen will be Sunday guests of Misses Nannie and Marie Purkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Echols Locke returned to their home in El Dorado yesterday after spending Thanksgiving with Mr. Locke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Locke and Carolyn.

Cpl. Thomas H. Clark left Thursday for Bolling Field, Washington, D. C. After a visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clark of Hope Route 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holland of Memphis are the guests of Mrs. Holland's mother, Mrs. L. K. Dildy.

Miss Ardath C. Hefner of SMU, Dallas, Texas, and little sister, Byron Denson, of Texarkana were guests of their grandmother, Mrs. I. F. Russell, for dinner last night.

Hospital Notes

Julia Chester
Admitted: I. H. Steed, Emmet, Delbert Johnson, Blevins, F. W. White, Billy Wayne Gilbert, Hope. Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Whitten of Hope, announce the arrival of a son, Nov. 23, 1951.

Josephine
Admitted: Mr. James E. Walters Hope, Mary Elizabeth Ray, Columbus. Discharged: Mst. Glen Milford Warren, Hope, Baby Mary Elizabeth Ray, Columbus.

Clubs

Liberty Hill
At her home Tuesday Nov. 13th Mrs. Ivan Williams was hostess to the Liberty Hill Home Demonstration Club.

The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by the presiding officer Mrs. Irvin Betts.

The hostess gave the devotional followed by prayer. Ten members answered roll call. There was one visitor, Mrs. Jim Daley. Discussions of the previous county council meeting was held. Plans were made to attend the Harvest Festival that night at the Fair Park. Games were directed by Mrs.

Starts Sunday at the Saenger

WILLIAM HOLDEN is visited by NANCY OLSON in a base hospital. Scene is from Warner Bros. "FORCE OF ARMS"

Starts Sunday at the Rialto

GLENN FORD and GENE TIERNEY find love in this scene from 20th Century-Fox's "THE SECRET OF CONVICT LAKE"

DOROTHY DIX

Woman Seeks Comfort

Dear Miss Dix: It would be a wonderful thing if you could give some sound counseling advice to the many, many women, including myself, who have gone through the agonizing heartbreak of finding their husband to be unfaithful. Of all the grief in married life, I think this is the most tragic, because it touches the deepest roots of a woman's soul.

I have been married fourteen years and have an attractive child of 12. My husband, though 50, is very attractive and I have always been considered an attractive person myself. I am nine years younger than he. From the beginning of my marriage I have suspected infidelities, and for the past six months they have been obvious. He has finally promised never to see the girl again and begs me to have faith in him. He has given flimsy excuses for his philandering—such as being starved for companionship (which has certainly never been denied him at home), doubting my love (also a subterfuge, etc.). Now I feel I can never trust him, and am torn between the desire to preserve my home and taking the drastic step of leaving.

BETTY K. S.

Williams with Mrs. Huron Light and Mrs. L. E. Huckabee receiving prizes. Mrs. A. A. Fuller and Miss Dorothy Williams received birthday gifts.

Assisting the hostess in serving refreshments were Miss Dorothy Williams and Mrs. Glen Williams.

Sweet Home
The Sweet Home Home Demonstration Club met Nov. 10th at the home of Mrs. C. A. Phillips with 21 members and 9 visitors present. The devotional, Psalms 23, was read by the hostess followed by all repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Roll call was answered by a gift I have already made for Christmas. There was no old business. The new business was the election of the following officers: President Mrs. W. T. Varberry; vice-president, Mrs. Dale Ward; secretary, and treasurer, Mrs. Dorris Carman; reporter, Mrs. G. H. Brotherton; and recreational leader, Mrs. W. R. Campbell.

The Christmas party was planned and committees were appointed. Members brought Christmas gifts they had made. Games were enjoyed by everyone. The prizes were won by Mrs. J. W. Hardy and Mrs. Roy Phillips. Refreshments were served to all present.

SAENGER

WEDNESDAY • NOVEMBER 28

INSIDE DOPE... On the wild 'teen-age' crowd... the 'Hot Packs' and the Week-Enders. See with your OWN EYES and Learn with your OWN EARS! Plan your theatre party now!

Slaying, Auto Connection Not Apparent

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 23 (AP)—A direct connection between the gangland slaying of Willie Moretti and the impounding of a sleek, expensive automobile in Toronto by Royal Canadian Mounted police is unapparent, say New Jersey authorities.

Canadian police said yesterday they had information a $5,000 black Cadillac they impounded was used as the getaway vehicle after the talkative gambler was shot to death in a Cliffside Park, N. J., restaurant Oct. 4.

A former jockey and his girl friend were arrested at the border several days ago and held on charges of possessing a stolen automobile.

Capt. J. Thompson, of the Bergen county prosecutor's office, which is probing the Moretti slaying, said yesterday he does not believe the impounded car is the one used in the getaway.

Cliffside Park police said they knew nothing about the car.

In addition, Thompson said he was told by Capt. Arthur Kerton, head of the state police end of the investigation that no state officers have been sent to Toronto.

The Mounties said they do not believe the couple held on the charges of owning a stolen vehicle had anything to do with Moretti's slaying.

Patsy Perry and Laurette Nesbitt, an 18-year-old dancer, were picked up as they were driving the automobile.

Frank Nassio, the attorney for the couple, said "my client has ownership papers for the car. Even the registration says the car was bought by Laurette Nesbitt."

The car's serial number had been filed off and a false one put on in its place, said the Canadian police. However, they added, the couple could have purchased the vehicle without knowing it was stolen.

According to Thompson, the Cadillac was reported stolen in New York city's 10th police precinct on Sept. 30. This was four days before Moretti was slayed by gangland guns.

Two persons held in connection with the slaying lived at the Hotel Belvedere in the 16th precinct, Thompson said, adding that he failed to see any connection between the car and this angle of the investigation.

TO RETURN

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito will return to Tokyo tomorrow, winding up his two-week tour of the Nagoya area southwest of Tokyo. There has been no repetition of the heckling given the emperor by leftist students on the second day of his tour.

SHE'S SET FOR SKIS—If you want to be different at the winter resort, try this eye-catching ski-skiing ensemble designed by Jacques Heim of Paris. It features sleeveless, flared tunic jacket in white Mongolian fur, and a Medieval-style headpiece in jewel-trimmed black felt. Underneath, you wear a black wool sweater, and, if the weather is frightfully cold, black wool tights. (NEA-Acme photo by staff photographer R. Henry.)

Barkley Fires Shot at Reds on Birthday

Central Front, Korea, Nov. 24 (AP)—Vice President Alben Barkley celebrated his 74th birthday today by firing an autographed artillery shell at the Chinese Reds.

He said he was coming through his long trip to Korea "in good shape," then added, "It's not too rough."

When he landed at the forward air trip of the U. S. 25th Division, the division band broke into "Happy birthday to you."

"I expect to live to 100, especially after this exhilarating trip to Korea," he said with a broad grin. Barkley reviewed an honor guard and shook hands with the 25th Division's commander, Maj. Gen. Ira P. Swift.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied commander, and Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army chief, accompanied Barkley on a swing along the front in an aerial caravan of light planes.

From the 24th Division the group flew to the 24th Division where the vice president presented a presidential citation to Company "K" of the 19th Infantry Regiment.

Battery "C" of the 52nd Field Artillery Battalion greeted Barkley with a 19-gun salute and gave him a polished shell case bearing the vice president's seal and this inscription:

"Fired for freedom by the 24th Infantry Division in Korea—1951."

Snow lay in patches on the ground and the mercury had risen to only 25 degrees from a low of 14 Saturday morning. Barkley came bundled up for the cold.

Barkley pulled the lanyard on a 105 millimeter howitzer to celebrate his birthday.

"The vice wrote his name on the shell with a red crayon before firing it at the Chinese in the hills to the north."

He signed it simply, "Alben Barkley."

Back in Seoul later he said at a news conference the Korean armistice situation "looks encouraging and hopeful that there may be a final agreement."

Barkley said his remarks were "not binding on the United States or the United Nations." But he declared that "if and when there is a settlement, the question that will present itself will be 'retaining troops in Korea until such time as peace is assured.'"

Rain is called "liquid sunshine" in Hawaii.

• Sales • Leases • Rentals • Loans
J. I. LIEBLONG
REAL ESTATE
Ranch — Farm — Urban
Property Management
204 South Elm Street
PHONES
Office 7-2226 Residence 7-5827

Available
SOON
Guaranteed Repairs on Fordson Tractors
and
Dearborn Farm Equipment

PENNEY'S
ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY!

TUESDAY SPECIAL

1000 YARDS

BRIGHT BOLD

PLAID

GINGHAM

50¢
Yd.

Mercerized and Sanforized Shrink Fast Colors

It Pays to Shop at Penney's

★ Starts Sunday ★
FIRST RUN SHOWING

SIX HUNTED OUTLAWS IN A VILLAGE OF WOMEN!

Glenn FORD
Gene TIERNEY

THE SECRET OF CONVICT LAKE

ETHEL BARRYMORE ZACHARY SCOTT

Excellent Short... "Fifth Freedom"
"Sitz Marks the Spot" • Color Cartoon

WEDNESDAY • NOVEMBER 28

"SHE SHOULD SAID 'NO!'"

INSIDE DOPE... On the wild 'teen-age' crowd... the 'Hot Packs' and the Week-Enders. See with your OWN EYES and Learn with your OWN EARS! Plan your theatre party now!

By Chick Young

HOPE STAR, HOPE, ARKANSAS

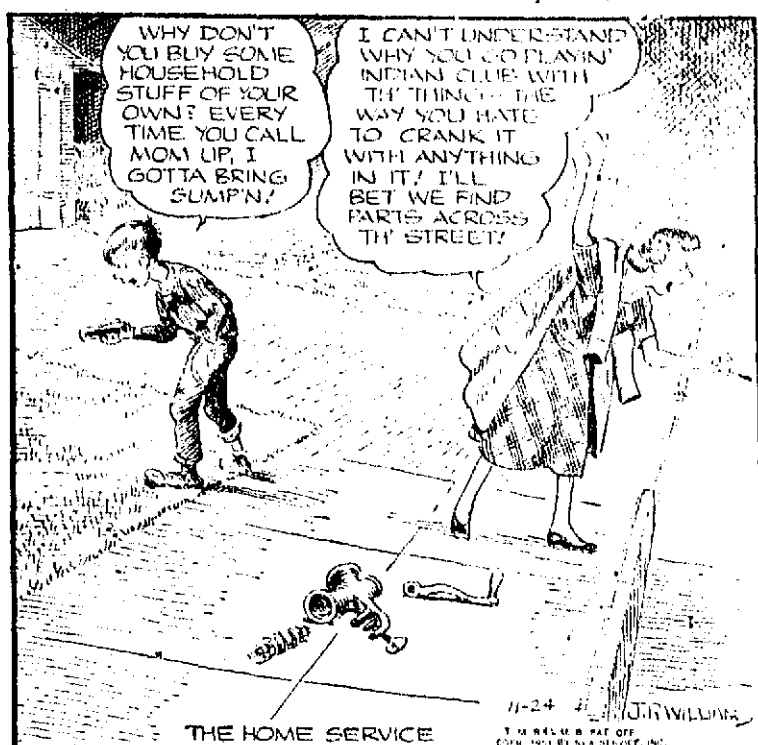

OSARK IKE

By Ray Goff

OUT OUR WAY

By J. R. Williams

VIC FLINT

By Michael O'Malley and Ralph Lane

Breed of Dog

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WINGED VICTORY

HORIZONTAL

1,6 Depleted dog, the West Highland
13 Pauses
14 Interstices
15 Shade tree
16 Palatable
18 Type of boat
19 Neaps (ab.)
20 Relieves
21 Station (ab.)
22 Symbol for selenium
23 East Indies (ab.)
24 Roman god of underworld
27 Antler
29 Symbol for niton
30 Sea eagle
31 Blood money
32 North Carolina (ab.)
33 Mince
34 Membranous pouch
36 Laughter sound
37 Part of "be"
38 Limb
41 Stage part
46 Chemical suffix
47 Follower
48 Utopian
49 Metal
50 Colonizes
52 Rectify
54 Expungers
55 Minute skin openings

VERTICAL

1 Song birds
2 Assisted

3 Doctrines
4 Size of shot
5 Essential being
6 Bugle call
7 Iroquoian Indian
8 Brilliant colors
9 Universal language
10 Allments
11 Oriental 12 Keep
17 Rough lava
25 Nested boxes
26 Halt!
27 Chickens
28 Killer whale
31 Public document
41 Vex (coll.)
53 Volume

33 Two-wheeled carriage
42 German river
43 Not as much
44 Babylonian deity
45 Blow with open hand
46 Roman road
51 One key only (ab.)
53 Volume

CARNIVAL

By Dick Turner

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

With Major Hoople

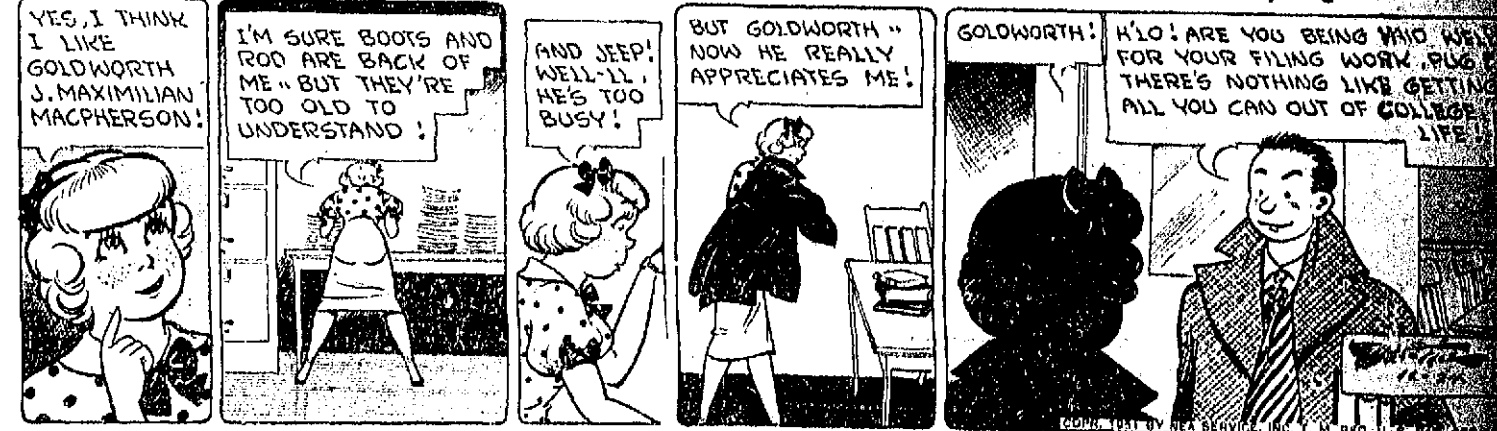

WASH TUBBS

By Leslie Turner

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

By Edgar Martin

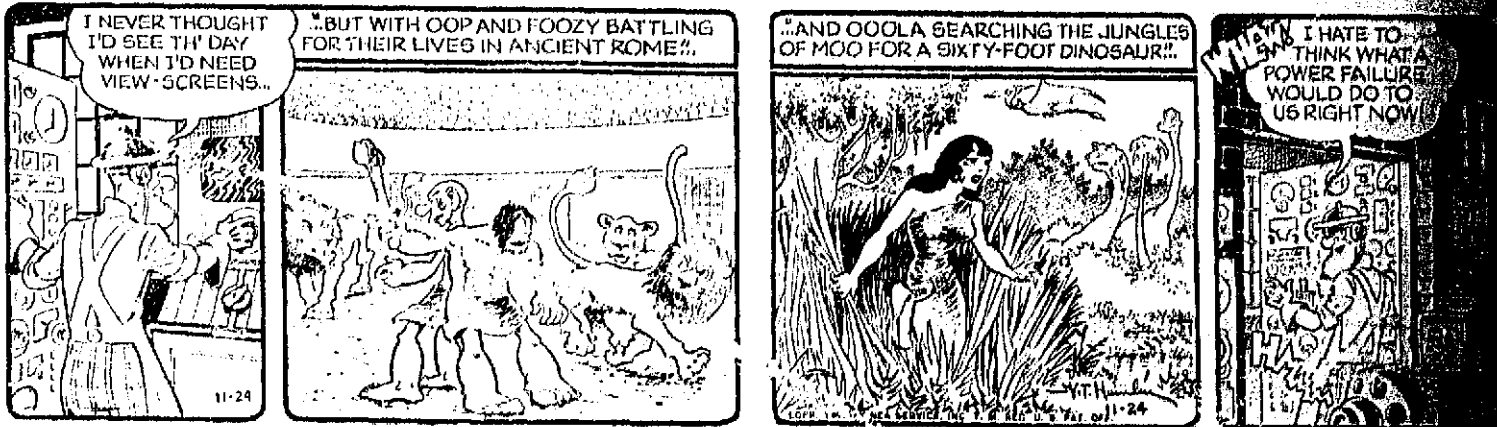

BUGS BUNNY

ALLEY OOP

By V. T. Hamill

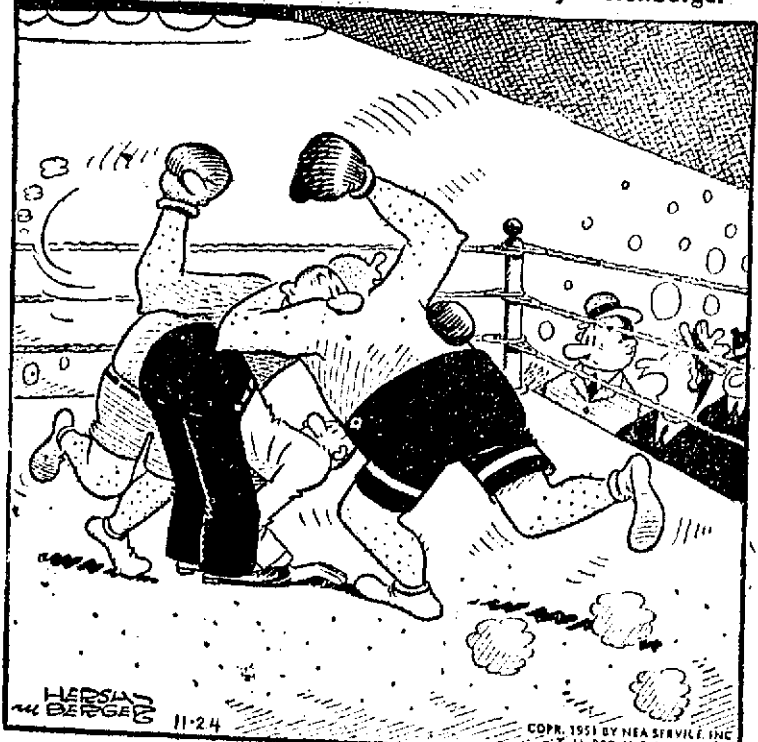

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Hershberger

"It's not a very interesting fight - that super-efficient referee gets in the way watching for low blows!"

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

By Blosser

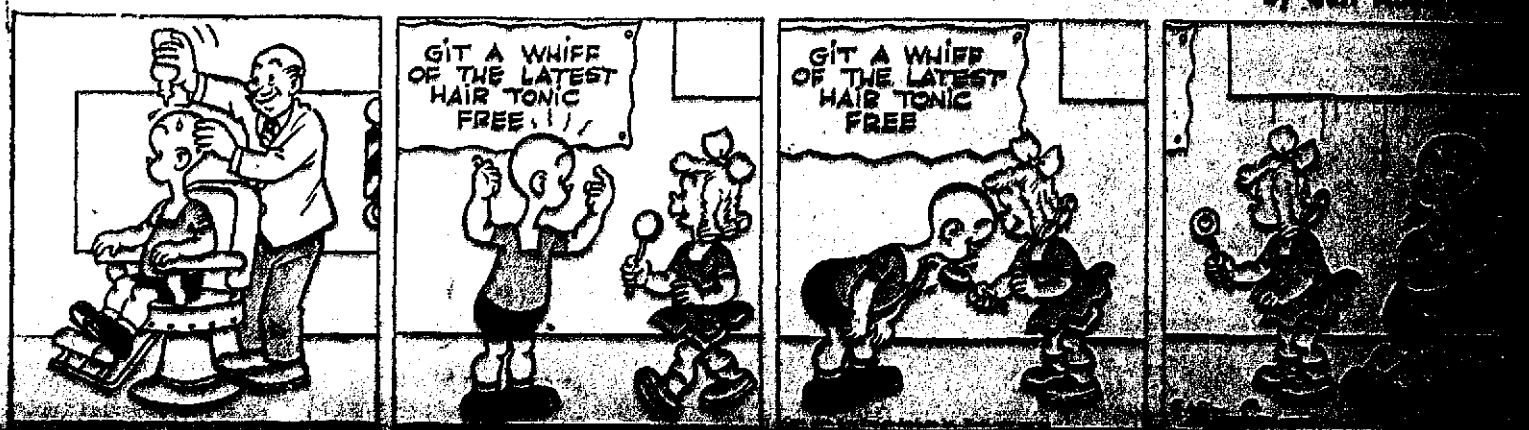

CHRIS WELKIN, Planeteer

By Russ Winter

HENRY

By Carl A...

Two Slayers Put to Death at State Prison

Tucker Prison Farm, Nov. 23 (AP)—Two Negro murderers were put to death in the electric chair here today.

They were: Peter Dorsey, convicted of the fatal shooting of St. Francis county Deputy Sheriff Roy Campbell near Forrest City, Aug. 1950;

Arthur Max Gray, convicted of the fatal slaying of Hixville taxi driver Homer Albert Tucker, Jan. March 5 in a robbery which netted around $15.

Gray was the first to be electrocuted.

Dorsey was the second man to die for the slaying of Campbell. Aubrey Smith, also a Negro, was electrocuted for the crime here last July 27.

Smith and Dorsey, held in connection with some cattle theft, were being transferred from Little Rock to Forrest City by Campbell and Forrest City Marshal Eric Tatum when the officers' weapons were taken from them. Campbell was shot to death and Tatum was wounded, but recovered.

Both Gray and Dorsey were baptized in the Catholic faith shortly before they were electrocuted, prison officials said.

Dorsey told officials he was going out to die unhurt. He said he didn't fire the shot which wounded the officers. Before Smith's electrocution, he said he fired the shot which killed Campbell.

Gray made no final statement. In keeping with Arkansas prison custom, today's double electrocution took place around official noon. It was a dull morning and no sun was visible.

After Gray was strapped in the electric chair, the first shock of electricity was applied at 6:30 a. m. No second charge was necessary, and he was pronounced dead at 7:02.

Dorsey received a first charge at 7:07. A second was applied a few minutes later. He was pronounced dead at 7:13.

The electrocutions of Gray and Dorsey left Herman Maxwell, 37, convicted Negro rapist, as the only occupant of the death house. The Arkansas Supreme court reversed Maxwell's first two convictions, carrying death sentences for rape of a pregnant young white woman near Hope, July 20, 1949. The third conviction was affirmed, Nov. 12.

Convictions of both Gray and Dorsey had been affirmed by the Arkansas Supreme court. Dorsey sought a review by the U. S. Supreme court, but this was refused.

The special Thanksgiving menu served all prisoners yesterday was supplemented for Gray and Dorsey by special dishes of their own choice for their final meal.

New York Buses Again Running

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Buses in the city's biggest transit company were running again today after Thanksgiving Day strike, but the threat of a massive pre-Christmas walkout on nine bus systems remained.

Third avenue transit system buses started rolling out of garages shortly before midnight.

However, all of the city's nine bus companies, carrying 600,000 riders a day, are threatened with a CIO Transport Workers Union strike—possibly on Dec. 1.

The union's contracts with the companies contain a no-strike clause.

Yesterday's blow, which started down as a wildcat strike, was sanctioned by Michael J. Quill, TWU president, and union leaders, affected about 100,000 riders. This is half the normal weekday load.

Quill told the strikers: "Go home and have your Thanksgiving dinner with your families. Report for work tomorrow."

The company said the walkout ended over the drivers' demand they receive the same pay on Thanksgiving that they would receive for an ordinary weekday.

They work longer hours and overtime pay.

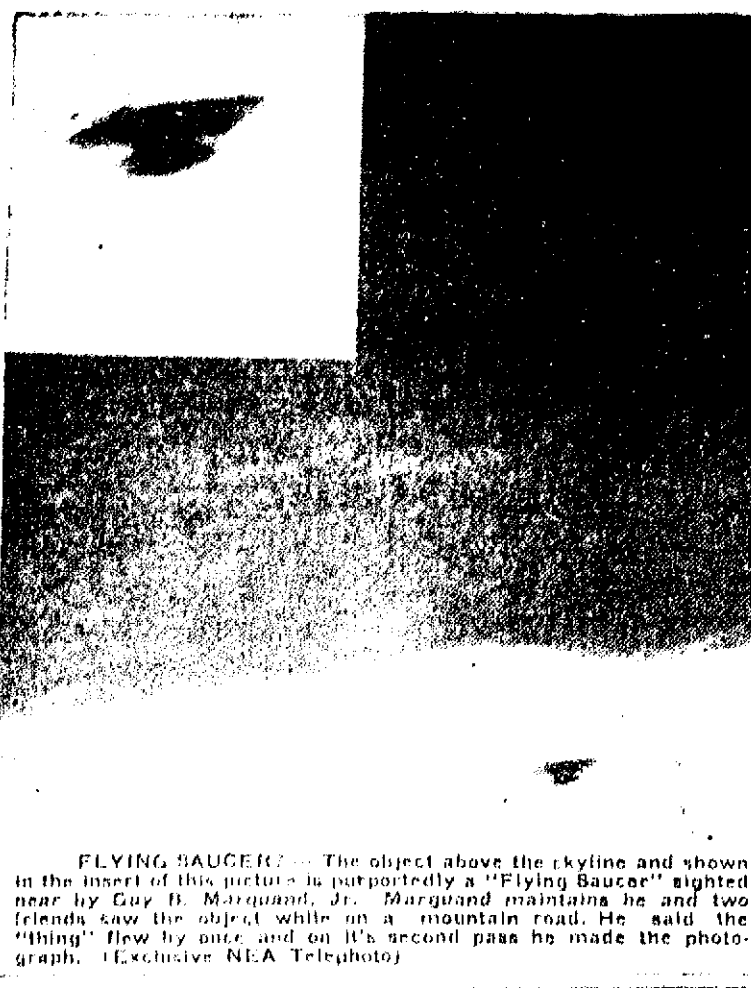

The union's company strike threat is the union's demand for a four-hour week and a pay increase of $1.00 a week, plus $1.00 for overtime and maintenance men. The union now have bus work weeks of 48 or 49 hours, with most of the overtime in two hours of overtime at premium pay.

Yesterday's walkout by about 900 drivers halted 48 routes. Bus service was paralyzed. The major routes in Manhattan were closed.

The 27 suburban Westchester routes of the 78 route Third Avenue system were not affected. The system was not affected.

The agreement provides for a working force on Thanksgiving and no overtime. James J. Connelley, executive director of the transit system, called the strike "a complete pledge and of the kind."

PERSON DAMAGE
Saturday, Nov. 24 (AP)—The which struck Japan late last night caused damage estimated at $100,000,000, minister of defense, Yoshida told the

FLYING SAUCER?—The object above the skyline and shown in the insert of this picture is purportedly a "Flying Saucer" sighted near by Guy B. Marquand, Jr., Marquand maintains he and two friends saw the object while on a mountain road. He said the "thing" flew by once, and on its second pass he made the photograph. (Exclusive NEA-Telephoto)

THINGS ARE LOOKING UP—Apparently well pleased with the efforts of U. S. Navy flyers in the Mediterranean are, left to right: U. S. Adm. Robert P. Carney, commander NATO, southern sector; Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander, NATO forces; and Vice Adm. Matthias B. Gaudner, commander of the U. S. Sixth Fleet. The trio watched the aerial display from aboard the U. S. S. Des Moines during air-sea maneuvers in the Mediterranean. (U. S. Navy photo from NEA-Acme.)

PRESCOTT NEWS

Sunday, November 25

There will be a young Peoples service at the Church of Nazareth Sunday at 7 p.m.

The Pioneer Fellowship of the Presbyterian Church will meet on Sunday at 1:30. The Youth Fellowship will meet at 3:15 p.m. Supper will be served by Mrs. O. R. Peachey and Miss Julia Logan.

The Young People of the Methodist Church will meet Sunday at 8 p.m. for worship, fellowship and recreation.

The Youth club of the First Baptist Church will meet Sunday at 5 p.m. for fellowship. The Training Union will meet at 4:30.

A children's service will be held at the Assembly of God Church Sunday at 7 p.m. A Young Peoples service at 7 p.m.; Mrs. Council 7 p.m.; WMO prayer meeting at 7:30 p.m.

The Baptist Training Union of the Central Baptist Church will be held Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

Monday, November 26
The Ladies Bible Class of the Church of Christ will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30.

The church of the WMO of the First Baptist Church will meet on Monday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Harrell
Entertain Guests

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Harrell and daughter, Anna, entertained with a dinner on Thursday evening at the Lawson Hotel for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Moore and son, Johnny, and Mrs. Clyde Marsh of Birmingham, Alabama, who are the guests of relatives.

The table held an attractive centerpiece of bronze urns interspersed with yellow button roses in a rose point crystal bowl flanked by yellow tapers in matching holders. Other guests included: Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Denman, W. F. Denman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Powell, Dale Denman, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Bright, Jo Ann Bright, Richard Bright and Mrs. Marion Franks.

Dinner music by Amelia Harrell was enjoyed.

Prescott Garden Club
Has November Meeting
The Prescott Garden Club was entertained on Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. W. Grimes with Mrs. H. E. Davis, Mrs. Watson White Jr. and Mrs. D. S. Jordan assisting hostesses.

Mrs. N. N. Daniel, president, conducted the business. The annual Christmas luncheon will be held December 18th. Gifts will be exchanged.

Mrs. C. H. Moore, program chairman, gave an informative talk on "Practical Holiday Arrangements." She also displayed arrangements and materials for them that can be gathered from ones own yard.

Mrs. Daniel won the prize for her flower arrangement.

A delicious salad course was served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Hesterly Reviews Book
At Kappa Gamma Meeting
The Upsilon Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met on Tuesday in the Home Economic cottage at the Prescott High School and had as their guests members of the Hope and Arkadelphia chapters in celebration of their fifth birthday anniversary.

Miss Rosanna Langley accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Langley at the piano sang "Little Brown Bird." A vocal duet "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise" by Miss Langley and Mrs. Langley was also enjoyed. Mrs. J. B. Hesterly, in her charming manner, reviewed the book "Requirement for a Nun" by William Faulkner. Miss Lela Hayes and Mrs. J. A. Eagle offered in fine little girls dresses sang "Two Little Girls in Blue." Group singing was also enjoyed.

Members and their guests: Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Earhart of Arkadelphia chapter, Miss Beryl Henry, Mrs. Lawrence Martin, Mrs. Elmer Brown, Miss Elsie Weisenberger, Miss Dean, Mrs. Jackson, and Mrs. Mason of the Hope chapter were served from a table covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of fall fruits and vegetables. A beautiful birthday cake topped with five candles also graced the table. Mrs. W. A. Norton presided at the tea service and Miss Elsie Gentry at the coffee service.

Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Langley and Miss Langley were also guests.

Mrs. Wilburn Willis and Mrs. James Williams spent Tuesday in Savannah, La.

Mrs. W. L. Hunt and Mrs. Wesley Ramsey attended the 98th annual Arkansas Baptist State Convention in Little Rock this week.

Allen Gee spent several days this week in Hot Springs.

Hervy Bemis has been the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Bobby Duke and family in Brownfield, Texas. He was accompanied home by Mrs. Bemis who has been spending several weeks there.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Markham of Dallas, Texas were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Moore.

Harley Cox of the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville is the

The Negro Community

By Helen Turner
Phone 7-4474
Or bring items to Miss Turner
at Hicks Funeral Home

LONOKE BAPTIST

Rev. F. K. Powell, Pastor
9:45 a. m. Sunday school
11:00 a. m. Morning worship
6 p. m. B. T. U.
7:30 p. m. evening worship.

GARRETT CHAPEL BAPTIST

Rev. F. R. Williams, Pastor
9:45 a. m. Sunday school
11 a. m. Morning worship
6 p. m. B. T. U.
7:30 p. m. evening worship.

RISING STAR BAPTIST

Rev. W. M. Erby, Pastor
9:45 a. m. Sunday school
11 a. m. morning worship
6:00 p. m. B. T. U.
7:30 p. m. evening worship.

BEEBEE MEMORIAL C. M. E.

Rev. T. J. Rhone, Pastor
9:45 a. m. Sunday school
11 a. m. morning worship
5:30 p. m. Epworth League
7:30 p. m. evening worship.

THE CHURCH OF GOD

Rev. G. W. Dorah, Pastor
9:30 a. m. Sunday school
11:15 a. m. morning worship
6:30 p. m. W. P. W.
8:30 p. m. evening worship

BETHEL A. M. E. CHURCH

Rev. G. Paschal, Pastor
9:45 a. m. Sunday school
11 a. m. morning worship
6:00 p. m. C. E. L.
7:30 p. m. evening worship.

CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

Child, O. N. Dennis, Pastor
9:45 a. m. Sunday school
11:15 a. m. morning worship
6 p. m. Y. P. W. W.
8 p. m. evening worship.

MT. ZION C. M. E. CHURCH

Rev. L. M. Manning
9:45 a. m. Sunday school
11 a. m. morning worship
5:30 p. m. Epworth League
7:30 p. m. evening worship

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jackson of Richmond, Calif. have arrived home to attend the funeral of Mrs. Block's brother, Ernest Perkins.

Miss Florine White of Little Rock spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry White, and other relatives.

Fred Coleman of Helena spent Thanksgiving with his mother, Mrs. Cora Ragland and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Davis of Oklahoma City spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson.

Cpl. Jethro Perkins of Milwaukee Wis., has arrived home to attend the funeral of Ernest Perkins.

Sgt. Willie Wilson has arrived home after spending 15 months in Korea. While home he will visit Mrs. Martha Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Randa, and other relatives.

Mrs. Lela Thomas died Nov. 20. Funeral arrangements are incomplete waiting the arrival of relatives.

Mrs. Mary J. Tidwell died Nov. 23, at the age of 61. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

The PTA of Hopewell Elementary school wishes to take this method of expressing appreciation to the parents and many friends of the Hopewell school for the wholehearted cooperation in the preparation and donations of food for the pre-Thanksgiving Banquet. The $40 taken in will be used to help with the monthly payments on a school project and recently purchased film strip machine and film strip library.

Friends will be glad to know that Willis McGeece is doing nicely at his home after being confined in the North Louisiana Sanatorium in Shreveport, La.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Toilette announce the arrival of a son, Sanford Irving, Nov. 21, 1951.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wintley announce the arrival of a daughter Brenda Elaine, Nov. 23, 1951.

"Gas" Light
A candle light "goes out" when you blow it. Because you blow away the gases which feed the flame. In lighting a candle the match must be held to the wax long enough for the wax to begin to melt and form gases.

day guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cox.

Rodney Hamilton, who attends the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hamilton.

JOHN KECK SAYS: IT'S COMING TO HOPE! FORD TRACTOR and Deere Farm Equipment -- AUTHORIZED DEALER --

See the great new "PACEMAKER" TODAY! LOW DOWN PAYMENTS! EASY TERMS! CALL US FOR FREE DEMONSTRATION

The Ideal Christmas Gift for Her

Home Furnishing Co.

218 E. Second St. Phone 7-2181

Russia Now Claims U. S. Playing Dirty

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—Now the Russians are indignant. They're complaining this country is playing dirty pool.

It goes back to a phrase tucked away in a bill passed by congress which the Russians took more than a month to discover.

In September the house was debating the mutual security bill to give $5,000,000 in arms and supplies to our allies.

Up stepped Rep. Charles Kersten, Wisconsin Republican, with a few ideas he wanted added to the bill.

If able-bodied men escaped from the Iron Curtain countries, he wanted some of the money used to form them into military units, which some day might be able to fight for the liberation of their homeland.

And he said, further, that some of the money could be used in helping underground organizations in countries behind the curtain.

The other members of the house seemed so captivated by the notion of setting up military units of escapees, that they spent all their time talking about that.

Except for Kersten's own brief explanation, not a word was said about cheating or helping underground groups inside the Iron Curtain. Nevertheless, the bill as passed by congress and signed into law in October says:

Some of the money should be used, whenever the President thinks it's worthwhile, for arming escapees "for other purposes."

That little phrase — "for other purposes" — is as wide as the sky.

It would certainly cover — anytime the President chose — Kersten's brief mention of helping undergrounds behind the curtain. In fact, it's wide enough to cover almost anything.

KOREA HOT SPOT—Symbol of the change in Korea's weather is the little stove that Military Policeman Cpl. Cecil Amaker of North, S. C., uses to help ward off Autumn chills while directing traffic somewhere in the war zone. Amaker is a member of the 24th Division's MP outfit.

This week the Russians started screaming. They charged the act

Barbara Not Sure Tone's Marriage Off

Hollywood, Nov. 24 (AP)—Barbara Payton blames "poor quality clothes" for her split-up with husband Franchot Tone, who is suing her for divorce.

"I'm going to take it easy until all this furor dies," the actress told a reporter yesterday. "I'm sick of the whole thing. The differences between us are personality clashes — petty quarrels, misunderstandings, kid stuff."

"It's not a matter of Franchot taking me back or me taking Franchot back. It's something we'll have to work out and maybe the separation will do us both good."

There have been reports that they had a friendly meeting since Tone filed his divorce suit last Tuesday after 53 days of marriage, and that there might be a reconciliation.

"Whether or not Franchot and I can make up depends on so much," Miss Payton added. "We're two mixed-up people and you can't expect us to make a quick decision."

She indicated she isn't interested in Tom Neal, who gave Tone a thorough beating in an argument over her affections shortly before their marriage.

Tone charged cruelty in his divorce complaint and indicated his split with Barbara resulted from her plans to make a picture with Neal.

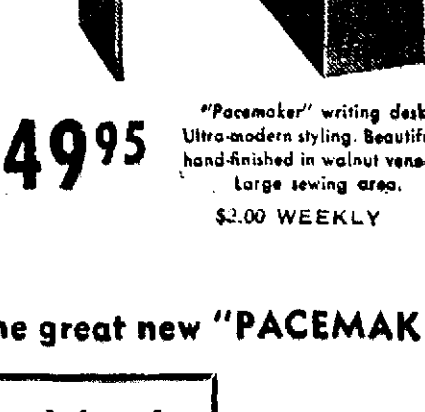

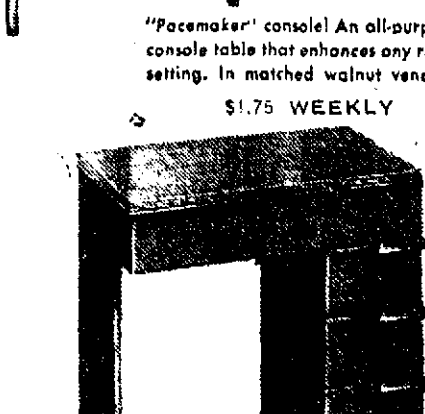

Chief producers of anthracite coal in the world are Great Britain and the United States, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

doing it, we've been sound asleep. We're not playing bean-gab with the Russians.

NO MATTER WHAT YOU PAY—YOU CAN'T BUY BETTER SEWING ACTION!

$99<sup>95</sup>

Full-size portable complete with attachments and case.
$1.50 WEEKLY

$119<sup>95</sup>
"Pacemaker" console! An all-purpose console table that enhances any room setting. In matched walnut veneers.
$1.75 WEEKLY

$149<sup>95</sup>
"Pacemaker" writing desk! Ultra-modern styling. Beautifully hand-finished in walnut veneers. Large sewing area.
$2.00 WEEKLY

PRESENTING THE SENSATIONAL FULL ROTARY, GEAR-DRIVEN NEW HOME "Pacemaker"

THE SMOOTHEST, QUIETEST, EASIEST-TO-USE SEWING ACTION EVER! 20-YEAR WRITTEN GUARANTEE!

Come see — come try the great new "Pacemaker" ... the most sensational sewing machine value ever! Never before have full rotary, gear-driven sewing machines been offered at these low, low prices! You'd expect to pay as much for a half-size or an "off-brand." But the "Pacemaker" is a brand-new, full-size machine with the famous NEW-HOME tangle-free stitching action. See the great new "Pacemaker" today!

LOOK AT THESE VALUE-PACKED FEATURES!

- Full rotary ..... the finest stitching action known for perfect sewing of all fabrics.
- Gear drive ..... gives smooth, quiet, vibration-free sewing. Longer life.
- Tangle-free ..... no tangled bobbin threads or skipped stitches.
- Forward and reverse ... sews in either direction at the flick of your finger.
- Thread tension ..... easy-ser-dial for perfect sewing with any stitch length. No broken threads.
- Attachments ..... ruffle, plait, hem—do things you never dreamed possible.

American-made by American Craftsmen

See the great new "PACEMAKER" TODAY! LOW DOWN PAYMENTS! EASY TERMS! CALL US FOR FREE DEMONSTRATION

Home Furnishing Co.

218 E. Second St. Phone 7-2181